

Attack on University Appropriation Charged To Political Motives

Attempt Is Made to Cut $95,000 Maintenance Fund, But Friends Fight Efforts to Make Change.

STATE SCHOOLS VOTED $4,500,000 EACH YEAR

If Georgia's Income Should Exceed $9,000,000, This Amount Will Then Be Increased.

An organized attempt to reduce the University of Georgia's maintenance fund from $95,000 to $75,000, which brought a storm of protests from all parts of the state, with charges that "petty political prodding" prompted the fight against this institution, and the fixing of the common school fund at $4,500,000 for the next two years, were the chief developments in consideration of the house appropriation bill by the house Tuesday afternoon and night.

During the evening session, attempts were made to reach a compromise on the proposed reduction, and Representative Powell introduced an amendment to slash the appropriation to $85,000. Advocates of the amendments were working throughout the house, but George Carwell, of Wilkinson, Howard Ennis, and other university supporters, made it evident that they would oppose any such move. They stated that their fight would be made for the whole fund and that indications of the institution's strength pointed to a victory when the vote is reached Wednesday morning.

Shortly after opening the afternoon session, the bill was introduced by Chairman Tombs Dubose, of the appropriations committee. The bill was read. Then the house resolved itself into a committee of the whole with Arnold, of Clay, in the chair. All of the first constitutional provisions were passed without opposition, but when the common school fund was reached, the first debate of the session was started. Under the act of 1919, which was presented to the house, the schools received fifty per cent of the state's revenue. The sentiment of the leaders was to fix the amount at some definite figure on account of the uncertainty of the revenue for the next two years. The Western and Atlantic railroad rental also would not be available for the school fund, it was pointed out.

Amendments Offered.
An amendment was offered on fixing the fund at $4,500,000 annually, and for a while it appeared there would be a long fight, but Lanford, of Toombs, presented an amendment which satisfied friends of the common schools. It provided that these institutions should be protected above all others. The amendment provides that the schools shall receive $4,500,000 for each of the next two years, and should the state's total revenue be more than $9,000,000 in either of these two years, fifty per cent of the increase should be given the schools. Bowden, of Ware; Wyatt, of Troup, and Vocelle, of Camden, who had introduced almost similar amendments withdrew them in favor of the Lanford measure.

With this important issue disposed of, it seemed that the session might continue peacefully, although a strong undercurrent of dissatisfaction was evident from the time the bill was read. Immediately following the passing of the University of Georgia maintenance paragraph, however, Wyatt, of Troup, jumped to his feet and offered the amendment calling for the reduction. "This is a time when economy should be practiced in the higher educational institutions," he shouted. "The university can purchase its supplies much cheaper than at the time when the $95,000 appropriation was made, and we should slash the amount."

Couldn't Go to University.
"I had to work my way through school. But I couldn't go to the University of Georgia—the state's institution, because of the expense and factionalism. I have a brother working his way through school now, and he can't go to the university. I say let's put them back on the same basis that were before this unusual period," he declared.

This attack on the institution was met with a strong reply from Ennis, of Baldwin, who declared that higher educational institutions in Georgia had been established after a "long fight and many trials" and that he deplored the attempts made to hamper their work. "Now you are coming here, after we have provided ways and means."

WOODALL IS TOLD CITY DETECTIVES PLAN HIS DEFEAT

Candidate for Council Informs Voters That He Has Heard That Fund Will Be Used.

Reports of a detective fund to be spent in an effort to defeat Councilman Fred C. Woodall for re-election from the third ward, were heard at a meeting of third ward citizens held Tuesday night to discuss the councilman's candidacy.

Councilman Woodall told the assembled voters that a rumor had reached his ears during the day that Lamar Poole, chief of detectives, had declared that he would go down in his own pocket and spend $1,000 to help elect another candidate, thus assuring a continuation of police affairs as they are at present.

In this connection, there were rumors in the third ward Tuesday that J. A. Bellflower may withdraw from the race against the councilman and the pro-detective strength concentrated behind another candidate.

Councilman Woodall voted to sustain the majority bureau report and proposed a measure of police reorganization. He stated the issue clearly in his platform.

Aggressive Campaign.
Rousing assurance that opposition to him would be met with one of the most systematic and aggressive campaigns ever carried through in the third ward was given Mr. Woodall by citizens present. The meeting was held at the residence of T. R. Stephenson, 330 Grant street.

Definite action to carry Mr. Woodall's fight for re-election to every section and corner of the third, was adopted at the meeting. An executive committee of five members was appointed to select subcommittees representing every part of the ward and a block to block and house to house canvass will be conducted in his behalf.

With the warning in their ears that money is to be expended by opposing forces the citizens planned a program of activity that will not slacken in its intensity. The subcommittees will be appointed at a meeting of the executive committee to be held Thursday night, and next Tuesday night a meeting of the full committee will be held.

Claim Woodall Victor.
Citizens who had volunteered to attend the sentiment of their neighbors reported at the gathering Tuesday night that they found them generally unanimous for Mr. Woodall.

Colonel Orville Hall presided at the meeting. He declared that Mr. Woodall had been honest and conscientious in his obligation to his ward and to the city, and it was this fact that impelled many voters to urge him to run again after he had indicated a desire to retire from politics. He said that this honest service deserved the reward of another term. Councilman Woodall made a short address in which he outlined his platform.

A number of voters made talks and asserted that they were going to work hard for his re-election in their respective settlements.

HOME OF BOB HAYES DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire of undetermined origin practically destroyed the handsome residence of Bob Hayes, at 134 Cleburne avenue, early Wednesday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes are at the city on an outing at St. Simons Island, Brunswick. Despite efforts of firefighters to check the blaze and prevent its spread, a house next door was ignited, the blaze being extinguished, however, before it could reach the residence. It is stated that the loss is covered by insurance.

ATTORNEY S. D. DELL OPPOSES AMENDMENT

Recommendation that the house bill, amending the highway acts of the state, pass by substitute, and refusal to incorporate an amendment drawn by Governor Hardwick to allow the governor to name the chairman of the state highway commission, featured a meeting of the public roads committee of the senate Tuesday afternoon.

The highway bill, passed by the house about a week ago as a result of a compromise between the factions in the house favoring the system of distributing the automobile tax money among the counties according to post-road mileage and the faction favoring the present system of allowing the highway commission to apportion the money as it saw fit, was the subject of the meeting.

A substitute was offered by the highway commission for the house bill before the senate committee and this was adopted Tuesday. It allows the highway department to set aside 10 per cent of the automobile tax money for the first of each year to be used to care for any emergencies during the year and the remainder to be distributed between the counties according to state road mileage. It also authorizes the highway department to confer with several counties and act with them in completing a certain local project. This provision permits several counties to fund their shares of a state highway money to carry on a project desired by all of them.

All of the members of the committee, and Representative McMichael, who sponsored the original bill in the house, joined in declaring the highway commission substitute a good measure.

As the substitute was being considered, Representative McMichael offered an amendment which he said was fathered by Governor Hardwick. This amended the bill creating the highway commission so as to allow the governor to designate a chairman of the commission. The committee decided not to incorporate this amendment in the measure, but to let its friends introduce it on the floor of the senate if they desire to make a fight for the change.

The Original Bill.
The original highway bill states that the highway commission shall be composed of three members serving terms of two, four and six years, respectively. It provides that the two-year member shall be chairman first, and that when his term expires the four-year man, and then the six-year man. As each member's term expires, the chairman is authorized to appoint a successor for a six-year term. Then each man as he reaches his fifth year on the commission shall become chairman. In this manner the chairmanship is automatically fixed.

Hicks Appointed to Succeed Rice
James I. Hicks, of Crawford county, has been appointed assistant commissioner of agriculture to succeed Peter V. Rice, who has assumed duties in another field of the state department of agriculture. It was learned at the capital Tuesday, Mr. Hicks assumed his duties Tuesday. J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture, was not in the city Tuesday and made no statement concerning the appointment of Mr. Hicks.

Mr. Hicks comes from an old and famous of Crawford county and is thoroughly experienced in all lines of agriculture, both in theory and in practice. He brings with him to the department also a wide experience as a farmer and demonstrator of agricultural machinery, farm implements and farming tools. Recently Mr. Hicks had been traveling out of Atlanta for the Supply-Biddle Hardware company, of Philadelphia, Pa., and covered all parts of Georgia in this work. While engaged as a traveling man he built up a wide friendship in the state.

Sam Gershon Returns From Polish Mission; Brings Wife With Him

Sam Gershon, of 212 Washington street, prominent in local Jewish circles and widely-known Atlanta citizen returned to his native home Tuesday afternoon after a trip to Poland for the New York Keblemer Relief association.

While in Poland, Mr. Gershon distributed in behalf of his organization approximately $115,000 among such institutions as hospitals and orphanages.

But that according to Mr. Gershon, was not the most important part of the trip. He brought with him on his return to Atlanta, his wife, whom he married in Brzysk, Poland. Mr. Gershon was Tuesday, the receiving congratulations both upon his return and upon his recent wedding.

"Conditions in Poland have only slightly improved," Mr. Gershon stated to friends. He had many interesting incidents to relate in connection with his trip and foretold of people suffering among the Polish people.

SALES TAX DROPPED AS BAD POLITICALLY

Washington Correspondent Says No Matter What Is Outcome, Wails and Moans Are Sure.

BY CLARK HOWELL, JR., Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.
Washington, August 2.—(By Constitution Bureau.)—When Congress gets to tinkering with taxation, that's the time the whole people begin to show a real interest in legislative affairs. For weeks and weeks skyward revision of the tariff occupied the most of the time of the house and senate, and the press and the public from the republican press and the great corporations protected by it, while the democratic papers were terming the Fordney tariff act a monstrous reversion to a cross between the deformed Caliban and the monster with the iron mask. And the same way, after passage of the Congressional Record has been filled with sensational philippics pro and con on the establishment of a hundred-million-dollar export corporation to assist the farmers in moving their crops. And every farmer in the country was interested.

Then the interest of every ex-soldier and the ire of most of them was aroused by the burial of the soldier bonus bill, and the accompanying funeral orations delivered in the senate chamber. After that the Willis-Campbell bill, which strengthens the Volstead act by making it illegal for physicians to prescribe unlimited amounts of spirits, liquors and their patients, received the undivided attention of both doctors and patients all over the country.

And so it goes with every piece of legislation which has been before the present congress. Disarmament, army and navy appropriations, good roads bills, the maternity bill, educational bills and what not—they have all had their close followers, whose spirits rose and fell with the vicissitudes of the measures themselves. It remains for the tax bill, the measure which will either directly or indirectly touch the pocketbooks of every man, woman and child in the United States to concentrate the attention of "poor man, rich man, beggar man, thief, doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief," interest in all the other legislation is compared to this, as the preliminaries of the Carpenter-Dempsey fight with the championship bout itself.

Sales Tax Bad Politics.
The house has passed a nationwide bill over the continuance of the excess profits tax that the republicans pledged themselves to its abolition. There has been a concerted effort to impose a sales tax as a revenue measure and to look upon it as a practical political move. Its imposition would spell disaster for political party that fathers it. Chairman Joe Forney, of the ways and means committee, said so himself and forthwith relegated it to the "back burner" where it is a tax measure that is inoperative are kept and kept.

Then along comes Secretary of the Treasury Mellon with his recommendation that the committee which is drafting new revenue laws should for three hours tell the committee just what kind of legislation is needed. His recommendations, which include a 10 per cent on every automobile, the increase of postage from two to three cents, a tax of two cents on every cigarette, the increase of taxes on cigars and tobacco, the reduction of transportation taxes by one-half, reduction of income taxes so the combined normal and surtaxes would be reduced on large incomes from 12 per cent to 10 per cent, and the increase of the flat corporate income tax from 10 to 15 per cent with the repeal of the capital stock tax, are understood to have the approval of President Harding.

Should the excess profits tax be abolished and the sales tax substituted, the republicans well make all sorts of political capital out of the change by claiming that the burden of taxation had been shifted from the rich to the poor. So, as has been pointed out, there will be no sales tax from reasons purely political. But Secretary Mellon bases his recommendation of the abolition of the excess profits tax on its failure of productivity, pointing out that its estimated revenue for 1921 of $450,000,000 is five times less than the return was in 1918. Business has for months demanded the repeal of the tax on the ground that it is a burden on the taxpayer.

INDUSTRIAL CHAOS FOUND IN RUSSIA

Reports Show Breakdown of Railways, Shortage of Fuel and Great Decline in Industries.

BY RALPH H. TURNER.

Washington, August 2.—Amazing conditions of the industrial and agricultural collapse in Russia, as they exist today, are revealed in reports which have been prepared here by the department of commerce. A review of the whole economic situation has been compiled, under the personal direction of Secretary Hoover. As indicated by the report, here are some of the factors which have created the present desperate situation:

A general decadence of agriculture. The breakdown of transportation, involving a decrease in motive power by 50 to 75 per cent.

The scarcity of fuel, caused by an 80 per cent loss in coal production.

Ninety per cent decrease in industrial output, as compared with pre-war period.

Big Drop in Exports. During the recent period of six weeks, exports, aside from pine logs, were only one-tenth of 1 per cent of the shipments in the same period before the war.

Imports for the period April 1 to May 15, are given as $6,000,000, or less than 4 per cent of the pre-war average.

According to the department of commerce report, recent instructions issued to the Russian government indicate the practical exhaustion of gold and the consequent reduction of foreign purchases.

The most acute famine area, it is stated, covers the Volga valley, from the Caspian sea northward. The situation is so dire that there is a report of cannibalism in some regions and the number of deaths is estimated at 100,000.

As indicative of the agricultural decay, it is stated that only 10 per cent of the acreage cultivated last year in the province of Kazan, 35,000 acres usually cultivated were not sown at all.

Since the revolution, it is said farmers have lacked incentive to provide more than their own needs.

Few Goods for Exchange. The urban population has produced little goods to exchange for farm products, and the currency depreciation, through the increase of currency issues to over 1,000,000,000 rubles, has rendered their accumulation no attraction.

The railway continues: "From these causes Russia, even before last year's harvest, had declined from a state producing from six to ten million tons of food for export to a condition where there was such an insufficient supply of food for the cities that the urban population have been reduced by about one-half."

Of 19,106 locomotives in good condition before the war, only from 5,500 to 7,500 are in working order now, according to the commerce report. Of the number, 10,000 were idle owing to lack of fuel. Twenty-five million dies must be replaced, it is stated, with a program calling for only 5,000,000 replacements.

The report contains no suggestion of recovery from the present collapse.

Liquor Schooner Seized Despite British Registry

Loaded With Booze, Boat Is Caught Beyond 3-Mile Limit.

New York, August 2.—The schooner Henry L. Marshall, with a cargo of liquor, was taken into custody late last night four miles off the coast by the coast guard cutter Seneca, and brought here today.

The schooner was flying the British flag, but officers from Seneca said there were no papers showing transfer to British registry.

The schooner after being boarded by officers from the Seneca, was taken into tow and a guard placed on board. On her arrival in quarantine the United States marshal and customs authorities were asked to take the craft into custody.

The schooner, listed as a fisherman registered 78 gross tons and her home port is Gloucester, Mass. She carries an auxiliary gasoline engine. Recent reports from Atlantic City said she had been sighted off the coast and that she had been visited by numerous motorboats.

Crew Arrested. The schooner was boarded and seized off Atlantic City, officers of the Seneca said on reaching quarantine. Four men constituting her crew were placed under technical arrest. The names of the men were given as K. Klausen, and the first mate identified as E. Thompson. They were taken to a motor boat as the Seneca came up.

On the deck of the schooner, whose name was concealed by a false name, coast guard officers said they found numerous cases of liquor with additional spirits below decks. There also was evidence that much of her cargo had been discharged.

The men detained by the coast guard officers gave their names as Clarence King of Barcelona, M. Murphy, American; L. Maul, French, and R. Pike, American, all seamen.

Boat Floated Bars. After examining the ship's papers, the Seneca's captain placed men aboard the schooner as a prize, and taking her in tow, started for New York.

United States Attorney Hayward declared the schooner brought to New York. He declined to indicate what he thought of the seizure, although he said that she might be charged with violating navigation laws.

For weeks the coast guard service has been circling nearby waters on the lookout for motor boats which have been reported bobbing up from Cape Cod south to the Virginia capes.

OF BRITISH REGISTRY. Daytona, Fla., August 2.—The schooner Henry L. Marshall, seized outside the three-mile limit off Atlantic City last night by the coast guard cutter Seneca, was transferred to British registry today, it was learned from the United States Shipping board, according to a dispatch here.

William F. McCoy, former owner of the vessel, McCoy, who was absent from the city today, announced several days ago that he had sold the schooner.

Representative Ernest G. Bentley's measure designed to place the selection of municipal judges of Atlanta in the hands of the people instead of leaving the appointments made by superior court judges of the city was unfavorably reported by general judiciary committee No. 2 Tuesday afternoon, after Murphy, Mr. Bentley urged the committee to recommend passage of the bill and allow the question to be settled on the floor of the house.

Mr. Bentley defended the present system, taking the position that instead of constructing a political machine on account of the measure, he would rather see the city kept in the hands of the people. He cited other cities where the same method of selection was followed and spoke strongly against favorable action on the part of the committee.

Should Mr. Bentley fail to secure further action on the measure at this session, on account of the measure of business awaiting attention of the house and the various committees, he will try his fight next summer, according to a statement he made Tuesday.

Boy Under Arrest Declared Buncle Artist By Police

Robert K. Stanley, aged 16, of New Orleans, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday for an indefinite stay. City officials had not been aware of his intended visit, but within a few hours following his arrival he was a guest at police station.

Until Tuesday night he had been stopping at the Princeton hotel. When C. L. Burch, representing the New York Life Insurance company, complained to the police that Stanley is a youthful prodigy in the art of larceny, the police were alerted, and Stanley was arrested.

According to Mr. Burch, the youth appeared at the Princeton hotel Tuesday morning and represented himself to be Charles K. Millspaugh, son of the big chief of the New Orleans branch of the New York Life. He exhibited a telegram purporting to be from a friend in New Orleans, and the strength of which he expected to get $50.

"Charles" said that he was in need of funds and had wired his father in New Orleans for money. The telegram, which officers claimed had been faked, purported to be from a friend, and that Mr. Millspaugh was out of the city, and suggested that the youth might secure some money from the Atlanta office of the company, his father represented in New Orleans.

Attache of the local office wired Mr. Millspaugh in New Orleans for direct authority. "Charles" learned of this action, it is said, and arranged to have a message "faked" from New Orleans, purporting to be from Mr. Millspaugh, and the local office was authorized to pay the money.

Stanley was paid the $50, and everything went along like a song until the real message from Mr. Millspaugh arrived, and the secretary began for "Charles."

Way officers searched his person and found among a bag of letters, cards and other documents a card reading as follows: "Let's get acquainted. Just for fun. Cable Address 25 Skidoo 4 U." and then in beautiful script: "Robert K. Stanley." Continuing beneath the name it went: "Out for a Good Time. Sole Owner of Love's Lane. Admit One."

Confronted with the card, he admitted: "Yes, that's me."

HARDING TO ACT ON RELIEF BILL

Washington, August 2.—The president is expected to act quickly in signing the Sweet bill, which will go to the white house for his signature Wednesday.

The house took the final action required on the measure by congress when it approved the conference report late Tuesday.

The bill establishes a veterans' bureau, under which would be combined all federal soldier relief agencies, and provides for a number of competent sub-offices in the field.

She first reported to the police a story which led to the finding of the slain man's body in a room in a local hotel, with a bullet wound through the heart.

When newspaper men informed Miss Clarke that her chauffeur had been held for the killing of Milmore, she received the news without emotion. "I don't know what I did," she said. "I am sorry they did that," she said. "He knows nothing about it."

"Why do a few of you come here to talk against funds to maintain a great institution? Do you want to close its doors? You know the reduction of this fund can mean the closing of the school."

He asked of you to let the University of Georgia continue its work."

Davis Takes Floor. Declaring that trained teachers were needed to maintain the common school system of the state, and that trained instructors were necessary to uphold the standard of the University, Davis of Oglethorpe urged members of the house not to allow petty political prejudices to prevent the institution to cause "pruning knives" to be applied to its appropriation.

"You should think twice before destroying or hampering one of the rockbeds of civilization," he said. "This is your school. You created it more than a hundred years ago, and now that it has been developed into one of the greatest universities of the south, you can take your knives and start to whacking. Then feel when you have finished the job."

Never Lose Opportunity. "Talk to me," Representative Wyatt Beckham, of Dougherty, declared that "there are some factions in the house that never lose an opportunity to attack the school at Athens."

"The time has come when we should discontinue such tactics. In considering our appropriation bills," he said, "this is not the right spirit with which to consider these measures. For it means nothing other than self-destruction."

When Mr. Beckham had finished, a motion to dissolve the committee as a whole and report to the speaker with the request to convene again, was carried. The house then adjourned until 9 o'clock in the evening, when debate on the appropriation was continued.

Evening Session. After being in session for more than two hours in the evening during which more than a score of speeches were made on the University appropriation, a motion was made by Representative Bowden, of Ware, that the committee report progress.

Chairman Zach Arnold, of the committee of the house as a whole, relinquished the chair to Representative Bowden, who announced that the discussion of the university appropriation will be resumed and when a vote probably will be reached.

When the evening session opened Representative Bowden, of Ware, introduced an amendment providing for an appropriation of $5,000 for the University, a compromise figure between the $95,000 reported by the committee and the $76,000 appropriation suggested by Representative Wyatt of Troup. After the house had resolved itself into a committee of the whole with Representative

He asked of you to let the University of Georgia continue its work."

Davis Takes Floor. Declaring that trained teachers were needed to maintain the common school system of the state, and that trained instructors were necessary to uphold the standard of the University, Davis of Oglethorpe urged members of the house not to allow petty political prejudices to prevent the institution to cause "pruning knives" to be applied to its appropriation.

"You should think twice before destroying or hampering one of the rockbeds of civilization," he said. "This is your school. You created it more than a hundred years ago, and now that it has been developed into one of the greatest universities of the south, you can take your knives and start to whacking. Then feel when you have finished the job."

Never Lose Opportunity. "Talk to me," Representative Wyatt Beckham, of Dougherty, declared that "there are some factions in the house that never lose an opportunity to attack the school at Athens."

"The time has come when we should discontinue such tactics. In considering our appropriation bills," he said, "this is not the right spirit with which to consider these measures. For it means nothing other than self-destruction."

When Mr. Beckham had finished, a motion to dissolve the committee as a whole and report to the speaker with the request to convene again, was carried. The house then adjourned until 9 o'clock in the evening, when debate on the appropriation was continued.

Evening Session. After being in session for more than two hours in the evening during which more than a score of speeches were made on the University appropriation, a motion was made by Representative Bowden, of Ware, that the committee report progress.

Chairman Zach Arnold, of the committee of the house as a whole, relinquished the chair to Representative Bowden, who announced that the discussion of the university appropriation will be resumed and when a vote probably will be reached.

When the evening session opened Representative Bowden, of Ware, introduced an amendment providing for an appropriation of $5,000 for the University, a compromise figure between the $95,000 reported by the committee and the $76,000 appropriation suggested by Representative Wyatt of Troup. After the house had resolved itself into a committee of the whole with Representative

WOMAN IS HELD IN ORLANDO DEATH, ALSO CHAUFFEUR

Orlando, Fla., August 2.—The coroner's jury empaneled to ascertain how J. H. Milmore, who recently came to this city from West Palm Beach, Fla., and purchased a restaurant, came to his death today held Miss Lena Clarke and her chauffeur, M. D. Patterson.

She first reported to the police a story which led to the finding of the slain man's body in a room in a local hotel, with a bullet wound through the heart.

When newspaper men informed Miss Clarke that her chauffeur had been held for the killing of Milmore, she received the news without emotion. "I don't know what I did," she said. "I am sorry they did that," she said. "He knows nothing about it."

MEETING CALLED ON TAX ELECTION

Leaders of Atlanta's civic bodies have been asked by Mayor Key to attend a meeting at city council chamber Friday morning to devise a plan of campaign to bring about success for the referendum at the election on August 31 to increase Atlanta's tax rate from $1.25 to $1.50 on the $100.

The charter amendment bill authorizing the referendum has been passed by the general assembly and was signed by Governor Hardwick Tuesday morning. The referendum will be held on the same date as the municipal primary, although separate ballot boxes and separate sets of managers and clerks will be eligible to vote.

Among the organizations to whom invitations have been sent are the following: Atlanta Women's club, City Federation of Women's Clubs, Atlanta Federation of Trades, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Fulton County Medical Society, Jewish Alliance, Junior League Rotary, Kiwanis, Civitan, Lions and Optimist clubs, Junior Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, Parent-Teacher council, League of Women Voters, Atlanta chapter of the Red Cross, Anti-Tuberculosis association, Motion Picture Managers, Atlanta Evangelical Ministers' association, Affiliated Technical Societies, Atlanta Greek society, Atlanta Retail Merchants' association, Atlanta Retail Grocers' association, Atlanta Retail Food Dealers, Atlanta Wholesale Grocers, Atlanta Credit Men's association, Atlanta Clearing house, Atlanta Real Estate board, publishers of The Journal, The Constitution and The Georgian, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls.

Miss Jewell Dobson Goes To a Good Position From The Southern Business College

Results Shown by This Popular Business School Cause Others to Enroll for Courses.

Results are what the people are looking for, and results are what the Southern Business College has always shown.

Miss Jewell Dobson wanted a good position. She knew that she would have to be prepared first, so she selected the Southern Business College in the South, and through a thorough trial for herself, I found it to be true.

"I have had no trouble with my work and have enjoyed it very much. This I know is due to my efficient teachers and their interest in each individual."

"I feel fortunate in having obtained the position I hold with J. H. Schroeder & Bros., one of Atlanta's most important firms. They are large dealers in machinery, etc."

WALKER'S HEAD OF CIVIC FORUM

Southeastern Fair
Probe Will Begin
Friday Afternoon

City council's probe of the management of the Southeastern Fair association will begin Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The call for the meeting was sent out to the members of the special committee and officials of the fair association Tuesday.

Inquiry into the legality of the association's contract with the city of Atlanta, the receipts and disbursements, with special reference to the amount expended on improvements at the fair grounds and salaries paid to officials, will feature the meeting.

The committee is composed of Councilman Bob Gordon, chairman; Councilman J. A. Couch and Councilman Alvin Richards.

BELIEVE TRAIN WRECK VICTIM AN ATLANTAN

Information was received Tuesday by the police department from a firm of undertakers in Norman, Okla., that the body of a man supposed to be Joe Harris, believed to be an Atlantan, is being held in that city pending complete identification.

Letters and other documents in his clothing, it was said, gave his name. The man met his death in a train accident July 27, it was stated. Efforts are being made by the police to ascertain if the man was an Atlantan.

ARMY AIR SERVICE FLYER IS COMING TO SURVEY FIELDS

Charles E. Robertson, secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, has received announcement from the Washington air director that an army air service officer will be here in the near future to survey Atlanta's possibilities as a transcontinental air route station, or the Washington-to-San Diego, Cal. route. Approval has been expressed by local army officers for the use of the Camp Gordon parade grounds for that purpose.

Consent of higher authorities is being sought to this plan. The Aerial Transport corporation of New York has asked the chamber of commerce what are the possibilities of Atlanta as a commercial center.

The chamber has for the past year investigated the surrounding territory with the view of selecting just a site as is now sought by the army officers and the New York aerial concern. The parade grounds, according to Mr. Robertson, is the best place that has been found.

A temporary landing field, marked so that it can be seen by the survey officer when he arrives, is also requested of the chamber by the office of the director of air service.

Conference with local citizens will be held by the surveying officer, who will also fly over the surrounding country seeking possible locations.

It is the purpose of the organization to create a public forum in every ward of the city, where issues may be discussed and candidates and officials questioned as to their views on public matters or about their official acts.

Resolutions by the forum body Tuesday are as follows:

- "Resolving that inefficient government means inefficient citizenship, and that the only way to secure permanent improvement is to promote a sound public opinion, the Atlanta Civic Forum feels that its principal function is to encourage and provide means for free expression of views effective our civic life and to afford opportunity for candidates for office to discuss such issues before the voters and to answer such questions as the voters may desire to ask. The voter can then appreciate the character and ability of the candidate and the city will profit by the advantage derived from the discussion of real issues and the elimination of candidates who impress voters as lacking the ability to perform the duties of the office sought."
- "What Forum Will Do."
- "The Atlanta Civic Forum, therefore, proposes:
 - "1. To encourage, utilize and co-operate with all forces and organizations which stand for justice, righteousness and efficiency in our city government."
 - "2. To promote the public weal by insistence upon the exercise of the right to vote by all good citizens."
 - "3. To do all possible to secure for and maintain in office men of high character and ability."
 - "4. To act as a clearing house of public opinion on civic questions."
 - "5. To promote intelligent discussion of public questions by citizens, candidates and officials."
 - "6. To promote a public opinion which will demand obedience to an impartial enforcement of our laws and efficient management of the city's business."
 - "7. To provide opportunity for city officials to discuss publicly questions of vital interest and to explain and justify expenditures of public money."
 - "8. To accomplish these purposes the members of the committee from each ward shall form in their respective wards a sub-committee, whose duty it will be to develop a public forum in their ward."
 - "(a) Where issues may be discussed and candidates and officials questioned as to their views on public matters or about their official acts."
 - "(b) Where nominations, if thought advisable, can be made or where candidates already announced or officials in office may be approved or disapproved."
 - "(c) A forum which shall, also, as a speaker's bureau and provide well-informed speakers to discuss questions before the public."
- "9. The committee of one hundred shall provide a forum for the city at large and arrange for competent speakers to discuss questions at meetings of the forum and also shall assist the ward subcommittees in any way that may be desired by such committees."

DEPUTY IN CHARGE OF BANK ROBBER FINED FOR ESCAPE

W. H. Ganitt, deputy in charge of J. R. Brooks, one of the three men who held up and robbed the Bank of College Park on June 25, after he made his escape from the United States public health service hospital on Peachtree road Monday morning, was fined $200 and sentenced to twenty days in jail Tuesday by Judge John D. Humphries in the Fulton superior court.

Ganitt, a former member of the Atlanta police department, was employed by Sheriff James I. Lewis to guard Brooks while the latter was at the hospital where he went for an operation for appendicitis. After the escape Judge Humphries issued a rule nisi against Ganitt directing him to show cause why he should not be cited for contempt of court for allowing Brooks to escape.

Tuesday morning Ganitt appeared before the court and admitted negligence of duty and stated that he had fallen asleep between 3 and 4 o'clock Monday morning. He stated when he awoke his prisoner had gone. Investigation at the home of Brooks' wife showed that she had departed taking her trunk Sunday afternoon.

While E. A. Stephens, assistant solicitor, was explaining to the court that there was something more to it," Judge Humphries announced that he did not need any more testimony.

Ganitt protested that he had been on duty in Peachtree Sunday but admitted that he had had a "ten-day vacation" at his own request, explaining he had wished to hear the band concert at the hospital.

BIG REVIVAL SERVICE HELD AT PENDERGRASS

Rev. Henry Pace, of LaGrange, Ga., a prominent Methodist minister, began Sunday night a ten-day revival service at Pendergrass, Ga. He will be assisted by Rev. V. R. Hammon, pastor of the local church.

"To Throw Out the Life Line to Others Will Cause You to Grow in Grace," was the text of the opening sermon. The other nine sermons follow: "What Will You Do With Jesus Who Is Called Christ?" "If You Will Meditate on the Good, You Will Hesitate to Do Wrong;" "Apply to Jesus to Supply Your Every Need;" "To Refuse to Answer as Your Savior Is to Lose Your Soul;" "Send Your Waves, Send Your Life With God;" "Pause to Help Another, Is to Cause Happiness to Come Your Way;" "Do Not Swear, But Forbear;" "It Is a Constant Fight to Do Right;" "Give—Forgive: Live for God."

VENABLE TO BE HOST TO YOUTHFUL FRIENDS

Deputy Clerk Walter Venable, who has been connected with the office of the clerk of the Fulton superior court for the past fifty years, will give a party to a number of his youthful friends at Stone Mountain at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The party will be at the home of Mrs. John Beauchamp, the King House. She will act as hostess and presents will be given to the children.

Mail Theft Charged.
Charged with theft of $15 from a special delivery letter, Will Harris, colored, was committed to the Fulton tower Tuesday by United States Commissioner James E. Brown. The warrant was sworn out by Post-office Inspector O. C. Cole.

HEARING ON REMOVAL OF CAPITAL DELAYED

As no quorum was present, the constitutional amendments committee of the senate, which was scheduled to meet at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to hold a public hearing on the capital removal bill, did not hold its meeting and postponed action on the bill to a future meeting, which will be called by the chairman.

It had been announced several days ago that the meeting would be held and all parties desiring to be heard on the removal issue were invited to be present. However, when the time for the meeting came, not enough members of the committee were present to constitute a quorum, so Chairman Wohlwender, of the twenty-fourth, declared that he would call the body together at some future date to consider the question.

Senator Frank Manson, of the thirty-fifth, and Frank Hooper, attorney for Atlanta in opposing removal, were on hand and expressed regret that the meeting was not held. Senator Manson declared that he is ready to have the whole issue come to a showdown and he decided one way or the other. He stated that it was not Atlanta's fault that the meeting was not held, as he had his entire delegation present.

Senator Wohlwender, who heads

GIVE EARLIER HEARING ON "CHICKEN HOUSES"

Judge George L. Bell, in the superior court, Tuesday granted an order changing the date of the hearing on the injunction closing the "chicken house" of Ed Ware and Terrell Lewis from August 6 to Wednesday. The house was closed Saturday after a number of residents in the neighborhood had petitioned the solicitor-general to take such action.

The date was changed on application of Ware & Lewis, who declared that if they waited until August 6 for a hearing several hundred dollars' worth of perishable goods would be ruined. Attorney C. Don Miller represents the "chicken

G. O. P. PLEASED BY ATLANTA MEET

Miller Says Georgia Is First State to Have Strong Republican Organization.

BY CLARK HOWELL, JR., Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, August 2.—(By Constitution Bureau Wire.)—After the republican conference in Atlanta, at which the party was reorganized in Georgia, Secretary Clarence B. Miller, of the republican national committee, has returned to Washington enthusiastic over the results.

If You Want More Bodily and Mental Vigor Try Me I Only Require One Minute of your time each day. I have helped give thousands of weak, run-down, nervous folks, increased strength and endurance, in two weeks' time, in many instances.

I am not a doctor but PHYSICIANS HAVE OFTEN ADVISED PEOPLE TO TRY ME. Former UNITED STATES SENATORS, United States Army Generals, Judges of U. S. Courts and many well-known people have availed themselves of my help.

STRONG MEN, ATHLETES, BRAIN WORKERS—they know what I can do when they want the "stay there" strength and endurance that wins.

WOMEN WHO ARE WEAK, nervous and irritable as a result of overwork, worry or household drudgery have often obtained most surprising relief from me.

When, as a result of iron starvation, you get up feeling tired in the morning when you can no longer do your day's work without being all fagged out at night; when your digestion all goes wrong, or you have pains across the back and your face looks pale and drawn, do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration or until in your weakened condition you contract some serious ailment. Try me. I only take one minute of your time each day. I am NUTRATED IRON—organic iron. I am like the iron in spinach, lettuce and apples. I help make strong, forceful, red-blooded, men and beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked women. Without iron like me, your blood becomes pale, thin and watery and loses its power to change food into living tissue, therefore nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—iron does.

Declare Dances Dancers' Dance Disgrace

Terpsichorean Professors Have Troubled Souls Over "Stationary Movements."

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER, United News Staff Correspondent.

New York, August 2.—If the boxing commission can break up prize fighters' padding parties and make them fight, why can't it do the same with the dancers? The teachers drawn here from many of the best dancing schools in the United States to attend the annual convention of the American Association of Masters of Dancing recognize that of late public dancing has declined into public sitting out.

One pretty girl who teaches dancing in Newark, N. J., is having trouble with her soul because of what she saw in a cabaret on Broadway not so long ago. Edna Rothard Tassapae says her soul rebelled at the dance of the moment, as done in a public toddle studio, and she flushed with shame to think that she was connected with an art which could be so degraded.

Wants Less in Fighting.

It is Miss Tassapae who proposes commission regulation of dancing, believing the public's footwork has been neglected and too much attention paid to infighting, as it were, as in the "Chicago" which she considers a "horrid" step, if it be at all.

Now, if there were a commission of some sort, Miss Tassapae suggested, "the judges could watch the dancers and expel them from the floor for vulgarity. I also believe the public's footwork has been neglected and too much attention paid to infighting, as it were, as in the "Chicago" which she considers a "horrid" step, if it be at all.

Many Overmatched.

A. J. Weber, a Brooklyn dancing master, also thought there should be some authority to keep sparring partners in action on public dance floors. If one couple slowed down, he pointed out, the other couples also have to slow down or jump over. As matters stand, there is no one to dissuade a dancer for an intentional foul, such as the strange, old, a common abuse in the class. Also there is no authority to prevent over-matching which accounts for the occasional agonies of a 110-pound man going six vigorous rounds with a girl tipping the beam at 200 in dancing gala. The boxing commission compels fighters to wear a certain issue of clothing in the ring, but the police are the only authority with the power to criticize the costume of dancers and they have been lax about it.

The dancing masters also think it would be very nice if their government should endow a national ballet school as the Czar of Russia did.

SENATORS BATTLE OVER TAX ON GRAND OPERA

At this moment there was much confusion and Chairman Walker, on a motion, declared the session adjourned.

The committee began its session at 2 o'clock, taking up the general tax bill item by item and making changes in various items as sent over from the house. The first section considered was section 72, covering legislative agents and the last section considered was section 117, providing for the tax on grand opera.

Tax on "Lobbyists."

Senator Wohlwendler declared many legislative agents were simply "lobbyists" and that he favored a tax of $5,000 instead of $100 recommended in the house report. After short debate the tax was placed at $5,000.

The tax on motorcycle dealers was reduced from $50 to $25. Section 89 was changed so as to reduce the tax on traveling photographers from $25 to $10.

The tax on stereo peddlers and clock and picture frame agents was reduced from $20 to $10, the large reduction being made because it was found that local dealers were forced to pay the tax in most instances. Merry-go-rounds will be taxed on a graduated scale instead of at the flat rate of $25. The committee decided. Under the proposed scale adopted by the committee the tax will be as follows: In towns of more than 50,000 population, $60; in towns of between 10,000 and 50,000 population the tax will be $30 ranging to $10 in towns of less than 5,000 population.

Tax on Pistols.

The pistol dealers tax was changed from $50 to a scale of $50 in towns of more than 10,000 population and $35 in towns of less than 10,000 population.

Slight changes were made in taxes on sanatoriums, soda fountains, and slot machines.

After considerable debate the tax on hotels of 7 1/2 a room proposed in the house measure was changed to provide a tax of $1 a room in hotels located in cities having more than 30,000 population and 50 cents a room in towns of less than 30,000 population.

The senate committee reduced the tax proposed in the house measure on carbonic acid gas from 4 cents a pound to 2 cents a pound. Senators Brown and Wohlwendler opposed this tax on the ground that it would place too great a hardship on the bottlers of the state. The bill is directed to tax the soft drinks put up by the bottling companies.

After the fight over the grand opera tax the committee adjourned to meet at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

INTEREST CENTERS ON TAX REVISION

grounds that it is complex, difficult, of administration, and inequitable.

Auto Tax Storm.

As for the $10 flat tax on each automobile, regardless of size, cost or horsepower, recommended by Secretary Mellon, there has already been a storm of protest among the protestants being chairman Fordney and other members of the committee, who insist that this tax should be graduated according to the cost and horsepower of the machines, thereby lessening the burden to be borne by the man of moderate means who drives an inexpensive car. The political expediency of such a view can be readily seen.

The transportation tax, the secretary of the treasury believes, must be retained in part for at least another year. The increase of postage rates would not only make up the postal deficit but would leave a balance for current expenditures. Amusement taxes will undoubtedly be retained.

The tax revisers are confronted with the task of finding for a revenue of at least $4,000,000,000 in order to meet the heavy government expenditures growing out of the war and the rapidly maturing obligations. This means that there can be no decrease in taxes, but that an effort will be made to shift the burden so as to make it less chafing than at present. The republicans say they will make taxation more equitable by removing the injustices in the present system, while the democrats insist that no matter what method of taxation is finally agreed on that it will simply be an adroit effort to camouflage the country into making the people believe they are being relieved of tax burdens—a robbery of Peter to pay Paul.

The Standard of the World

Not a Penny of Premium in the Price of World's Greatest Motor Car Value

The man who buys the Cadillac becomes the owner of the most distinguished achievement recorded in its field—but he acquires that distinction without paying a penny's worth of premium.

This is so because, in the matter of price, the Cadillac actually reverses a world-wide practice.

There is an unwritten business law that when a manufactured article is conceded to be without equal among its kind, the buyer gladly gives more for the greater value which its excellence assures him.

In the case of the Cadillac, this admission of greater value is freely and frankly given.

And yet—contrary to world-wide custom—the Cadillac is lower in price than the cars which eagerly seek comparison with it.

Moreover, it outsells all of them combined by a volume which is something like one-third greater.

This latter fact explains why the Cadillac is not only the world's greatest value in point of all that constitutes superb performance, but the world's greatest value in price as well.

It is the only car of its high character which has been able to apply to a large production that fineness of manufacture which is really its special excellence and value.

And by reason of that large volume, the Cadillac is spared the necessity of asking a higher price for manifestly higher excellence.

STAGE IS NOW SET FOR BOYKIN PROBE

Whether or not charges of Aldine Chambers against Solicitor-General John A. Boykin will be investigated is now a matter for grand jury decision. Announcement of that decision is expected after the grand jury meets Thursday. Mr. Chambers having met all the legal requirements yesterday for setting in motion the machinery looking toward the removal of the solicitor-general from office.

He did this when he sent formal charges against Mr. Boykin to C. D. Montgomery, foreman of the grand jury, and accompany them with an affidavit as required by law. It is understood that three specific cases are set out in which Mr. Chambers alleges that the solicitor-general settled bond forfeitures for less than their face value contrary to the laws of the state. Should the grand jury elect to go into an investigation of these

W. & A. DISCOUNT BILL UP TODAY

It was announced by President Herbert Clay Tuesday night that the house bill providing for a discount on the next five years' rental on the Western and Atlantic railroad would come before the senate for passage Wednesday morning. It is expected that a warm fight will result when this bill is taken up as some members of the senate are very much opposed to it. The bill was recommended to pass by the appropriation committee about a week ago by a vote of 10 to 4. It is intended to discount the rent on the road for five years, thus obtaining about $2,500,000, and this amount is to be used to meet the present depleted financial condition of the treasury.

MOHAMMED KAHN PLEASES LIONS WITH MAGIC SHOW

Feats of legerdemain by Mohammed Kahn, the Hindu wizard, featured Tuesday's luncheon of the Lions' club in the Piedmont hotel. Mohammed, who has served with Herman the Great and Ringling Bros. circus, is a native of Afghanistan. The discussion of "What Atlanta Needs," by members of the club was postponed Tuesday, but will feature Tuesday week's luncheon. Another feature Tuesday was the appearance of Miss Nora Allen, a former inmate of the Georgia State Prison, who entertained the Lions by old favorites. Short speeches were made by DeSales Harrison, of the junior chamber of commerce, and W. C. Stokes, of the Macon Lions club. Mr. Harrison spoke of "an accident week," which begins on August 7, asked the Lions to co-operate in making the week successful. Mr. Stokes spoke of the Lions' club of Macon, and declared that organizations of a similar kind should be established in every town in Georgia through the initiative of big city clubs. Announcement was made that "commission form of government" will be discussed next Tuesday, and that two prominent men who had had practical experience in that form of government will speak. Those who have been secured are P. P. Picher, city manager of Decatur, and R. E. White, a member of the Decatur board of commissioners. John L. Smith, brother of J. R. Smith, president of the club, will sing at the next luncheon.

PARDON IS GRANTED TO MARGARET HARRIS

Upon recommendations of members of the legislature headed by Senators Goulkewitz and Fleming, who visited recently, and of the state prison commission, Governor Hardwick Tuesday granted a pardon to Margaret Harris, girl convict of Chatham county, who was given a nine months' sentence on a charge of larceny. The girl was but seventeen years old when she was convicted at Savannah. When the legislative committee visited the state prison farm recently many of the members became interested in her case and on their return to Atlanta urged that a full pardon be granted her. She had served thirty days of her sentence when pardoned.

FILIBUSTER ENDS, AFTER FIVE DAYS

Nix Attacks Atlanta and Opera—Free Text-Book Measure Is Given Ap- proval.

After conducting a filibuster which lasted five days and prevented the senate from doing any constructive work in that time, supporters of the bill to appeal the tax equalization law lost their fight in the senate Tuesday morning when the measure came to a vote and failed to get the requisite constitutional majority of 26. The vote on the bill was 22 to 22.

In a night session Tuesday of about an hour and a half duration the senate passed the general bill to appeal the code by a vote of 22 to 22. The session was held in order to clean up the remainder of the bills which were passed by the senate. Senator Jones challenged tactics of friends of the measure for conducting their filibuster to prevent a vote being taken and declared that they had outraged the people they represent by consuming so much of the state's time. He declared that passage of the measure would ruin finances of the state by causing an immediate decrease in tax returns.

By Senator Goulkewitz of the Nineteenth (Companion Bill)—To amend an act to provide for the appointment of a commission to investigate the conditions of the state of Georgia, and to report thereon to the next session of the general assembly.

A resolution was introduced by Senator Walker, the purpose of which is to defeat the Western and Atlantic rental discount bill now pending in the senate. It provides that, as the treasury is in a bad fix and cannot take care of all appropriations made last year, the governor shall have the authority to take all money as it comes into the treasury and make an equitable distribution of it for maintenance of the state sanatorium, the tuberculosis sanatorium, the southern home for the blind and deaf, the academy for the blind and Confederate veterans.

MARINES ASK FOR AID IN FINDING MASCOT

A dog's dog—but "Jack," a toy fox terrier, is one of the official mascots of the local marines in the Austell building. "Jack" has been absent without leave for the past week, when he left his sister mascot, "Bill," sleeping on the deck of Lieutenant Frank R. Bealer, U. S. N., medical officer for the marines. "Jack" and "Bill" were made official mascots of the marines during July with full ceremonies by Captain P. C. Geever, Jr., U. S. M. C., officer in charge, and his assistants, soon after Lieutenant Bealer reported to the station as medical examiner.

White Off on Long Motor Trip

In the above photograph, taken at the plant of the White Provision company, W. H. White, Jr., at right, is seen shaking hands with a friend, preparatory to setting out on the motor trip to Chicago, where he will attend the annual session of the American Meat Packers' association. Between the two men with clasped hands is seen John K. Otley, Jr., and to the left, leaning against the door of the automobile, is William White III, who are accompanying Mr. White on the tour.

W. H. White, Jr., president of the White Provision company, left Monday at noon for a motor trip to Chicago, together with his son, W. H. White III, and John K. Otley, Jr. The party is now speeding on its way to the northwest to the annual convention of the Institute of American Meat Packers, which will be attended by the White family. Three days of next week in Chicago. Returning, a different route will be taken, the party passing through country that offers novelty as well as change of scenery.

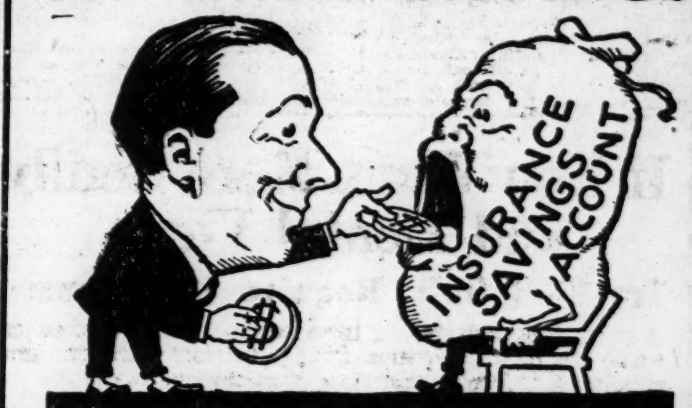

Local Labor Leaders Expected to Ask Place On Industrial Board

Louie P. Marquardt, of Atlanta, and J. E. Bodenheimer, of DeKalb county, probably will apply for the vacancy on the state industrial commission caused by the resignation of W. P. Raoul, who submitted his resignation to Governor Hardwick Tuesday.

It is expected that the governor will consider the wishes of organized labor leaders in making the appointment. Raoul's term would have expired October 1, 1922. Mr. Raoul has accepted a position as one of the international officers of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees.

SAME NOW, AS THEN!

Fifty years ago Atlanta was suffering from political evils within its government similar to those in existence today, and from the same fundamental cause.

In the "Fifty Years Ago" column yesterday the following extract appeared from an editorial in The Constitution, August 2, 1871—

There are several changes needed in our city. The election of members of council by wards only should be done away with and council should be elected by the voters in every ward.

Atlanta was then, as now, governed by the atrocious "ward system," by which each ward elected its own council member to legislate for the whole city.

Shortly afterward a sweeping change was made, by which all councilmanic representation was based upon city-wide and not ward expression, and to make sure of it the city charter was amended accordingly by the mandatory provision that every councilman must be chosen by the vote of the whole city; and that is the charter law today.

But some fifteen or twenty years ago a way was found to evade this clear provision of the city charter by providing for ward instead of city election of councilmen in the primaries, in direct conflict with the method that, by charter provision, applied in the regular election.

Thus the old ward system was re-established by evasion, and ever since then the city has been in hot water financially.

From that day to this the standard of council has steadily declined, until now the average councilmanic election is very largely a free-for-all political ward catfight.

Atlanta is today confronted by the same situation as that which existed fifty years ago.

Then the people rose up en masse, demanded a change in the city charter, and they got it, only to have it taken away from them by evasion.

The politicians "got in" their insidious work and eventually the people were led again into the old trap and inveigled into returning to the old ward-heeler, political jiggery ward system of electing their lawmakers.

No member of council should represent any particular ward; but every member should represent the entire city.

Every member votes on every measure affecting the city at large.

Health, sanitation, taxation, education, police and fire protection and the like are city, not ward, matters.

Under the old system of electing councilmen by vote of the whole city, when two or more candidates offered for council every voter in the city cast his ballot for the one best fitted for the office, and the best man generally won.

Now it is largely a question of ward manipulation by experts who are willing to tackle the job in one ward, but who could not handle the whole city.

The city now is being run, as it was fifty years ago, under a system of ward juggling and political string-pulling by which seats in council are frequently obtained by men who could not possibly get in, if the city at large had anything to say about it.

That same system was overturned by the people of Atlanta once.

And the same thing will happen again, and the sooner it does the better it will be for the city.

CARUSO'S DEATH.

There are few men or women in the world today whose death would occasion such universal sorrow as has been caused by the unexpected passing of Enrico Caruso.

Few have ever lived to be so widely known and to wield such a world-wide influence.

Throughout Europe, North America and South America, the greatest of all tenors was the idol of thousands who loved him for his golden voice and his equally golden personality; and there is not a village nor a fireside in the world, where an appreciation of musical art has a place, into which the refining influence of his extraordinary gift of vocal expression has not penetrated.

Caruso was not only a great artist, but he was a great man—a man of big heart and of a personality that was as lovable as it was magnetic.

By superhuman effort and arduous, plodding, hard work and study he arose from the status of the son of an obscure, non-musical Italian machinist to the highest pinnacle of artistic fame.

His achievements appear all the more remarkable in view of the fact that he was still a comparatively young man—only 48—when he died.

By Caruso's untimely death a place is left vacant in the world of music and art which will be hard to fill.

Indeed, there seems to be no one living now who is capable of filling it—nor was any tenor who ever lived equal to Caruso.

His death is a loss to all mankind; and especially will it be deplored in Atlanta, where Caruso was better and more intimately known, perhaps, than in any other city in the world, with the exception of New York.

For ten years he has been a regular visitor to Atlanta, with the exceptions of the "war year," when the Metropolitan grand opera season was dispensed with, and last year, when his last illness prevented his coming.

Atlanta will miss him, and with all the world will mourn the loss of this great artist—the greatest in his line the world has ever known.

ENRICO CARUSO

Galli-Curci Pays Tribute
Supreme Soprano Sorrows of Death of Compatriot
To Greatest of All Tenors

Amelia Galli-Curci, whose position among women of the world of opera is perhaps comparable to that held by the late Enrico Caruso, and who has been heard with the great tenor this winter at the Metropolitan, received the news of the death of her compatriot with overwhelming sorrow.

Mme. Galli-Curci was born at Milan. Enrico Caruso was a Neapolitan. It was in America that both of these artists received their greatest fame, and the entire musical world was keenly interested in anticipation of hearing them together in opera for the first time. The privilege had never been accorded the American public.

Mme. Galli-Curci's tribute to Caruso is the sincere thought of a fellow artist.

BY AMELIA GALLI-CURCI.

(Copyright, 1921, by United News.)

One of the most brilliant and most beautiful careers in the history of the world's music has come to an end. I am inexpressibly shocked, inexpressibly grieved at the passing of Enrico Caruso, and it is difficult, very difficult, to attempt at this time an appraisal of that wonderful human spirit and glorious voice which has gone.

Caruso's hold upon the affections of the multitude was founded upon more, however, than that wonderful voice. It was founded upon his own human qualities—his great, generous heart—and finally, upon the heroic inspiring struggle he made through this final period of agony, a long illness in which the hearts of the entire world were with him to the end.

Caruso's voice needs no praise from me. All the world knows how brilliant, how magnificent, how golden it was. But there are some, perhaps, who never realized that back of this voice was a great soul, a great heart, which embraced all humanity in its generosity. Caruso did not belong to himself, but to the public. And he gave himself to the public with untiring devotion, advancing his art and inspiring others with his own success.

It was his privilege to have sung with him again this winter. As I had sung with him the memorable season in South America, in 1915, I had looked forward with the utmost joy to this event, and I am overcome with the realization that it was not to be. Today it seems impossible that he will ever be heard again.

Enrico Caruso's success came not alone from that God-given throat from which poured his golden notes. True, his voice, physically, may have been a gift such as it has never been given to any other singer. But his success came from work, from devotion to the cause of art. He gave his life to it and he left a brighter, happier world because of it.

In the end, the world will remember him as much for this devotion, as much for his human qualities, as it will for the songs he sang.

Great Personality Passes
In Death of Enrico Caruso

BY LOUISE DOOLY.
Great artists die in their time, and the world of art regrets them. The great artists of the past, however, space to them in proportion to the part they have played in the progress of art, or the admiration accorded them in the art life.

To take the place of Caruso, however, is a task of no small magnitude. He held a place in the public regard as unique as his voice was among tenors, among all singers. And so, when extras told yesterday morning of his passing (and before then had any slither been reported of a popular interest sufficient to warrant an extra), the great news occasioned a stir confined to any limited group or to the realms of music. The whole world mourned.

Here in Atlanta, the realization that the greatest voice this generation has ever heard—and probably any generation—had forever been stilled, would not have been so keen had we not experienced in our recent spring season of opera the absence of Caruso.

Great interpreter. The great public loved Caruso's voice for its natural beauty and the feeling emotions it aroused. The art world loved it for these same reasons, and then in addition for the uses to which it was put. The possessor was not passively content with the mere possession and exploitation of a natural organ, the unique beauty of which made it the period of the period. But he had from the first the highest aspirations for its development as a medium of art expression, and his work was the program he mapped out for himself and adhered to conscientiously.

And so, throughout the years, there was never any falling off in the joy Caruso's singing gave. The great voice, properly called golden in its youth, took on a different timbre with the years, and authorities called it silver; but with the passing of its pristine glory, which is the mark of a great voice, there was no depreciation for Caruso, studying working hard, he learned to supply the art which had been lacking in his first years of fame. And this his art was not merely singing parts, but great interpretations, like his "Samson," his "Eleanora."

It is told of him that he said once that he would scarcely be sorry when advancing years made it necessary for him to give up singing; that the work was too incessant, and more than that, the physical care he had to take of himself was so burdensome.

The world is selfish, and ordinarily a singer, when his voice can no longer give pleasure, ceases to hold people's interests.

Loved for Self as Well. But when Caruso's health failed in the winter, and it looked as if he might never sing again, even though he recovered, his fans felt that there was many a prayer spoken and in silence, that whether or not he ever sang again, he might at least live to enjoy a happy old age, in the midst of his family and with the fruits of his years. And he did. He made his old age luxurious.

Will the stage of the Metropolitan or the Atlanta auditorium ever present his like again? It is of course possible, but at present there is no extra who has shown any indication that his shoulders are broad enough to hold the name of Caruso, and even should another voice rise to similar fame, it is likely that there will, soon again, loom upon music's horizon a singer with such a background too, of personality.

El Paso, Texas, August 2.—An announcement was made at headquarters of city detectives today that they had heard that Warren C. Spurgin had been apprehended on the American side of the border, near Marfa, Texas. They said, however, that they had been unable to verify the report through officers at Marfa or other border towns, which are in close touch with their office. County officers at Marfa, Texas, have telegraphed officers in Chicago and the Michigan Avenue Trust company asking if there is any reward for the arrest of Spurgin. According to the officers here, they know his whereabouts, but are waiting to hear from Chicago before issuing papers for his arrest.

RAIL WORKERS KILLED
BY FREIGHT ENGINE

Rome, Ga., August 2.—(Special.)—Track Foreman J. H. Stephens and Trackman T. A. Tate were instantly killed, and Trackman M. C. Hill seriously injured today, when the freight handcar on which the men were riding toward Rome was struck by an extra freight engine on its way from Rome to Kingston on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad, about 12 miles from Rome, near Eves station.

The extra engine had been called for at Kingston, and the men on the motor track car knew nothing of its coming. The car, the engine met at a short curve. The bodies were brought to a local undertaking establishment and prepared for burial. The funeral will take place in Kingston Wednesday. The engine which killed Stephens and Tate was in charge of Engineer Brack Adams. Hill saved his life by jumping. But was seriously hurt. Adams was about 48 years old, and leaves a wife and nine children. Stephens was 21, and leaves a wife and baby. Both were residents of Kingston.

Mulberry Street
Will Not Believe
Caruso Is Dead

"He Will Come Back," They Say, as Golden Notes Pour
From Records.

New York, August 2.—Mulberry street, that little New York principality to which Enrico Caruso was hie lord, protector, demi-god, refuses to believe the truth. The king cannot die, Caruso lives.

The bearers of evil tidings who rushed to the Italian quarters from newspaper offices when cables flashed the word "Caruso dead" were received with blank stares, shrugs, sometimes open hostility.

"Oh, no. That can't be so," they said. "He lives. He will come back." "Why, I saw him in the pictures only last Sunday. He looked fine. He is not dead," they continue. And the burden of their refrain is always: "He will come back. He will come back."

There is scorn for the report in the coffee shops, where laborers and merchants gather. Even when the corner policemen, whose word is gospel, confirms the news, they refuse to believe. "Just a newspaper story," they say.

Of course the colony is excited. Editions of their own newspapers telling in hysterical Italian phrases of the last hours of the great tenor, are read everywhere, but so astounding is the news that it must be the cables have made a mistake, they think.

The man who owns the talking machine shop on one corner, and whose walls are literally papered with Caruso's picture, turns to his real records and plays "Pagliaccio," "Rigoletto," "La Boheme," "Aida" over and over again.

"You see," he says, "Caruso lives. And he will come back, to make more records like these."

HAWAIIAN PROTESTS

FINANCED BY JAPS

Wall have asserted that the Japanese gradually were gaining business control on the island and that they were secretly opposing temporarily lifting of American immigration laws which would permit a flow of labor needed to meet the shortage in time to save future crops.

Delegate Kalamianale, sponsor of the bill before the committee, declared in a statement tonight that control of Hawaii had been Japan's objective for many years.

In a statement tonight Mr. Gompers declared the proposed legislation would make possible the importation by sugar planters of Hawaii of "approximately 50,000 Chinese coolies for the benefit of great corporations, for their added profit and for the exploitation of humanity."

"There is before the people of the United States a grave issue," he said. "Let not the fact that this immediate resolution applies only to Hawaii mislead any one. It has been shown to my satisfaction that Hawaiian sugar planters have been secretly opposing the law to keep silent about this measure, because if coolies in peonage can be secured for Hawaii now, they may later be had for American planters on the mainland. To their credit the American planters on the mainland have not fallen in with this treacherous suggestion. But nevertheless the possibility remains."

Memphis Chicks Are Defeated By Locals' Terrific Clouts

Visitors Held to Four Hits by Suggs—McLary, Rariden and Mayer Hit Homers.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Had the well-known Mr. John (left-handed) Suggs possessed the hypnotic eye over Polk McLary that was once accorded Monseur Deschamps over his Georges Foss, Mr. Suggs might have pitched himself another no-hit game against the Memphis Chicks. But even slugging as he is at his worst at times, Polk was not equal to the task of holding the Chicks in enough runs to rival the hit compiled by the Frankmen at Ponce de Leon yesterday afternoon, and the locals crashed beneath the wire with the big end of a 7-3 rout.

It was ladies' day, and if it be true that the dangerous sort of men to the carnival element in everything, the game must have been a great one to the Dutohmen's free customers. Long his were the rule and some of the night's classic features were shown on Ponce's classic features were rung up for the edification of the fans.

Three home runs, a triple and two doubles comprised the list—about half the singles that were delivered in the long distance—clouting the wire of the homers and both doubles. Polk's contributions were a home run, a triple and a double.

Scored All Runs.

He scored all of the Chicks' runs, banged out three of their four hits and was unimpaired in every other way for Mr. Frank's southpaw. In addition to all this, Polk fielded like a young colt and the crowd liked his work immensely. Some one once said that Colonel McLary was a helpmate against north-sided twirlers. He is, just like Champion Dempsey is against John Kilbane. The Chicks came very near checking in with two more home runs than are credited to them. Joe Guyon, for instance, was slugging single to Williams in left and maced all the way home. Then the Chicks gardener was bit about stooping to make the pick-up. And then Mr. Suggs slipped, a wicked drive to the bank in left—drive that usually permits the batter to reach first base—stopped at second and waited for the ball to be relayed.

Home Run Knockers.

The circuit knockers in addition to McLary, were Sammy Mayer on McLary, it was Sammy's sixth homer of the season, but Bill had to show the fans that he was capable of hitting a ball far enough to entitle him to the long run. The connection he established this time, however, was an excellent one. The majority of fans that saw McLary's home run really seen a player literally "raise a ball." Now, but that is just what Bill did to one of Turo's fast ones. It entered the willows to the left of the scoreboard and the crowd's attention was still looking for the pellet when the Cracker captain crossed the plate. McLary sent the word to Sinner to give up the search and he handed McLary back recovered up until a late hour last night.

George Schmidt, the Cracker's recruit shortstop, secured from the home club, made his debut and looked fine. He was a very near shortstop, having but two chances. The first he fumbled, after making a great effort to halt a Memphis batsman, but the second offering was handled perfectly. The double with de hand needed in the third broke the existing tie, the Mayor and Wingo scoring.

Allen's Homer Wins.

The crowd's effort to halt a home run over which Birmingham won by a score of 2 to 1. Mobile, Alabama, won the game. The pitcher, Morris, and Roberts pitched excellent ball, the local pitcher weakening in the last inning.

Favorites Win Second Round Matches in City Title Play

Dillard and Wilson Stage Long-Drawn Setto. "Hop" Owens in Easy Win—Doubles Today.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

Three O'clock.
Owens plays Melver.
Peel plays Dillard.
Hallman plays Wilson.
Lobby and partner play Davis and Kenley.
Harwell and Johnson play Wilson and Carter.

Four O'clock.
Beall and Garner meet Matheson brothers.
Boyd and Shimoff meet Fuller and Tupper.
Brittain and Morris play Bridges and Turner.
Caldwell and Owens play Van Winkle and Carter.

M. B. Dillard and W. N. Wilson staged the feature exhibition in the second rounds of play for the city title on the Piedmont park courts yesterday when they traveled 54 games for the decision, Dillard winning eventually by the 6-2, 4-6, 11-11 margin. In addition to this long-drawn battle several other matches of the nip-and-tuck variety characterized the second day's play.

Jack Caldwell was forced to travel six tortuous sets to win his way into the fourth round of play. Norman Johnson, with his seven feet of towering and reaching frame, used his smashing overhead so as to keep young Caldwell traveling at a rapid pace to win out 6-2, 6-7, 6-4. Johnson was unable to use his back hand effectively and Caldwell placed his shots to his best advantage to offset Johnson's overhead and network. In the only third round match played Caldwell again came through with a three-set win over John J. Simpson.

Caldwell goes well. Simpson opened with a furious onslaught on Caldwell that swept the first set in love scores. Jack rallied in the second set and continued to steadily improve his game.

Camels are made for Men who Think for Themselves

Such folks know real quality—and DEMAND it.

They prefer Camels because Camels give them the smoothest, mellowest smoke they can buy—because they love the mild, rich flavor of choicest tobaccos, perfectly blended—and because Camels leave NO CIGARETTE AFTERTASTE.

Like every man who does his own thinking, you want fine tobacco in your cigarettes. You'll find it in Camels.

And, mind you, no flashy package just for show. No extra wrappers! No costly frills. These things don't improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons.

But QUALITY! Listen! That's CAMELS!

GANS HERE THIS WEEK

Every fighter, who is matched to fight on the all-colored championship card scheduled to come off at the auditorium Monday night, August 8, is fit and ready for the going to sound. The card is sure to prove one of the best from a standpoint of action that has been staged in Atlanta.

Almost as much interest is being shown in the ten-round match between Battling Mims, the big Milwaukee scrapper, and Kid Brown, of Augusta, as in the championship match between "Tiger" Flowers and Panama Joe Gans, which is scheduled for fifteen rounds. The opening match of ten rounds between Billy Hooper and Battling Moon, should be a good one, as these boys have fought a fierce six-round draw here in Atlanta, thus the added four rounds should allow them to decide once for all who is the better of the two.

Gans Here Friday.
Leo P. Flynn has wired to Promoter Miller that he will have the colored champion, Panama Joe Gans, on the ground in time for him to finish up his workouts here. Gans is expected to arrive on Friday in time to work at the Business Men's Athletic Club in the afternoon. He will work at the Colored Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening and at the club on Sunday.

Tickets are on sale at Chesapeake, The Rex and Majestic Billiard Parlors, Worthy's Smoke House, Auburn avenue, and Pet Foster's, West Mitchell street. The six-day draw in staging the match has added interest to it judging from the way the tickets are going, and a new attendance record is probably to be set on Monday night, according to Promoter Miller's view.

DETROIT TIGERS WILL TRAIN AT AUGUSTA

Augusta, Ga., August 2.—Ty Cobb, who is here on a visit to his family, said he expects to make Augusta the training quarters of the Detroit Tigers for the remainder of the season. The team is installed at the local club-house.

FIELD DISAPPOINTING IN JR. WESTERN MEET

Nashville, Tenn., August 2.—Only about 25 golfers are here to compete in the Junior Western golf qualifying round which begins tomorrow over the course of the Belle Meade club. It is the first time in history that this tournament has ever been held in the south. Officials were keenly disappointed at the small entry list and on that account time for closing entries was extended.

Jack Wensler, former Tennessee champion, Alex Bush, of Louisville, and Joe Matting, of Chicago, are rated as the most formidable contenders for the championship.

RACING PROGRAM OFF UNTIL WEDNESDAY

Toledo, Ohio, August 2.—Today's program of grand circuit racing at Port Miami track has been postponed until Wednesday. Rain which fell last night and this morning made racing impossible, but the track is expected to dry out in time to permit resumption of racing tomorrow.

Forfeited Franchise.

Rocky Mount, N. C., August 2.—The franchise recently drafted by the Petersburg club in the Virginia league has been awarded to Tarboro, N. C. It was threatened here tonight by Vice President W. S. Moye. The players of the Petersburg club and all accessories will go with the franchise and the first game of the Tarboro club will be played with Rocky Mount here Thursday, Mr. Moye stated.

Bank Messenger Robbed.

Chicago, August 2.—Four robbers in an automobile waylaid a bank messenger on a southwest side of the city today and escaped with $3,000 in cash. The victim was Benjamin Zukerman, employed by the Eleventh Street State bank.

Football Rumbings Are Heard Games to Draw Many Spectators WITH HARVARD

New York, August 2.—Rumbings of the football season are already beginning to be heard on all sides. There undoubtedly will be a tremendous demand for seats at the games this fall, as is clearly indicated by announcement from Cambridge that not only the Yale and Princeton games with Harvard will require the application of system, but that it must be followed also in the games with Penn State, Center and Brown. The Harvard stadium is paying for itself over and over again in response to the football games alone.

The Yale football team of last year showed a wonderful array of material and together with the stars left over from last season's varsity, should give Captain Aldrich and Coach Jones a fine lot of men to work with when they start preliminary work at Yale. This encouraging situation in Yale football is backed up further by reports from New Haven that the entering class this fall will include many choices from such prominent schools as Hotchkiss, Andover, Exeter, Hill and most surprising of all, from Lawrenceville.

It is reported that Walter D. Powell, director of athletics at Lehigh, will turn over the Yale team to C. E. Vangent, the old Wisconsin player.

Bout Rained Out.

New York, August 2.—The ten-round match between Mike Gibbons, of New York, and Alvin Karpis, of New York, set for tonight in an open air arena, has been postponed until Thursday night because of rain.

C. F. M'LAUGHLIN WILL SEEK SEAT HELD BY WRIGHT

Friends of C. F. M'Laughlin, of Columbus, solicitor-general of the Chattanooga circuit, announced Tuesday that he will enter the race for congressman from the fourth district to succeed Congressman William Wright, the incumbent. Mr. M'Laughlin has been in Atlanta for the past several days and has already agreed to run.

Mr. M'Laughlin, a graduate of the University of Georgia, is one of the state's best-known lawyers and defeated George Palmer eight years ago for the post of solicitor-general of the Chattanooga circuit.

POSTMASTER KILLED AT VIRGINIA TOWN

Petersburg, Va., August 2.—Tivon Elmore, postmaster and storekeeper at Tobacco, Va., a small town on the Virginia railroad, about fifty miles south of Petersburg in Brunswick county, was killed about 40 yards from his store last night about 9 o'clock. A bloodstained wrench was found in the road and the man's head was crushed.

Two negroes, brothers, named Terry, have been arrested as suspects and the authorities are continuing their search.

Pictureque Ride.

The presidential party arrived late in the day after a picturesque motor ride of more than a hundred miles from New Orleans. The party, which had the yacht Mayflower in the morning, a stop was made at Crawfish Lake, La., and after a picnic, the president played a round of golf at the local course.

Besides Secretary Clegg and President Harding, the party included Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, and Mrs. Phillips, of Colorado, and Mrs. John W. Darden, Secretary Weeks' daughter, in hostess in the absence of Mrs. Weeks in Europe.

Despite its isolation, the cottage has many modern conveniences, and the drive mounting to the summit is in reality a well-constructed boulevard; otherwise the mountain slopes are completely overgrown by virgin forest, from which a red fox scampered out to take a shy look at the presidential party as it passed.

There are several golf courses in the vicinity and it is likely the president will have time for recreation during his stay here. He may also decide to take several automobile rides along the winding mountain roads. He has been extended a warm welcome by the local people and indicated that he will not break his vacation to accept any of them.

In Lancaster the president's coming occasioned quite a commotion. A large group of automobiles were parked at the entrance to the White House, and a prominent member, who had been expected to arrive, was not there. The arrival also prompted town officials and business men to deny that the visit had been or would be an excuse for profiteering, local hotel keepers assuring that reports of contemplated advances in hotel rates had been due to a misunderstanding.

FITTING HONORS PAID HEROES WHO GAVE ALL

The largest contingent up to the present time of American war-honored veterans to arrive in France arrived in Atlanta Tuesday morning at the Terminal station, while hundreds of thousands of military and naval heroes were being honored around the city. The veterans were being honored in a fitting manner by the city and the state.

There were forty-five flag-draped coffins, assigned to Atlanta for distribution to their respective homes and last resting places. The bodies arrived in America from France at Hoboken, N. J., the port of debarkation and are sent on to Atlanta for final distribution.

Fitting services were held over the bodies at the Terminal station with Chaplain John Randolph, of Fort Monmouth, in charge. Among the bodies received here Tuesday was that of Private Lee Doda's body, sent to Manchester, where the Benning firing squad will be held Wednesday. Rev. W. C. Ivey, of Atlanta, will officiate.

COURT IS CONVENE IN CAMPBELL COUNTY

Fairburn, Ga., August 2.—(Special.)—Campbell Superior court convened in regular session here Monday with Judge John B. Hutchison, of Jonesboro, as presiding judge. General A. M. Brand, of Lithonia, representing the state.

JONES LEADING RACE FOR HOUSE IN WALKER

Lafayette, Ga., August 2.—(Special.)—Early returns in the Walker county balloting Tuesday indicate C. Jones, of Jonesboro, is the leading candidate. Dr. S. H. Paris and Don Harris, former representatives, concede the election to Jones.

John N. Holder, former speaker of the house of representatives, and candidate for the governorship in the last primary, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday night and will confer with Governor Thomas W. Hardwick this morning relative to his acceptance or rejection of the chairmanship of the highway commission to succeed Dr. Charles N. Strahan, which post has been tendered him by the governor.

While Mr. Holder would not issue a statement, it was reported that he would accept the office if it were so arranged by the legislature that he might be appointed chairman and devote his entire time to the work of the commission.

Stanley Bennett, of Quitman, is the next member of the commission in line for the chairmanship under the present law, and the senate committee Tuesday refused to recommend a change so that the governor might appoint the chairman. Mr. Bennett is unwilling to accept the office, it has been stated, except to preserve his own business interests and inability to devote the proper time to the discharge of the duties.

S. D. Dell, highway department, Tuesday stated that he was in error in stating that Mr. Holder was next in line for the chairmanship.

President Seeks Rest Four Miles From Telephone

Hardings Begin First Vacation Since Inauguration, Atop Wooded Peak.

Lancaster, N. H., August 2.—President Harding came into the White Mountains of northern New Hampshire today for the first vacation since his inauguration. At a little over 1,000 feet above sea level, the heat wave and 4 miles removed from the nearest telephone, the president and Mrs. Harding, with a party of close friends, will be guests for the remainder of this week, at least, and longer if public affairs permit.

Complete rest, with perhaps some golf, fishing and mountain climbing, will occupy their first attention. The house selected by the president for his vacation is the country home of Secretary Weeks, of the war department. It stands on the corner of Prospect street, 2,000 feet above sea level, with only wooded slopes about it. A private drive, closed with a substantial wooden gate at the base of the mountain, winds up to the little clearing that contains the lodge.

Recent improvements at the mountain's foot, 2 miles from Lancaster. The lodge is only a few minutes' ride from the railroad, about forty miles from the Canadian border.

Pictureque Ride.

The presidential party arrived late in the day after a picturesque motor ride of more than a hundred miles from New Orleans. The party, which had the yacht Mayflower in the morning, a stop was made at Crawfish Lake, La., and after a picnic, the president played a round of golf at the local course.

Besides Secretary Clegg and President Harding, the party included Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, and Mrs. Phillips, of Colorado, and Mrs. John W. Darden, Secretary Weeks' daughter, in hostess in the absence of Mrs. Weeks in Europe.

Despite its isolation, the cottage has many modern conveniences, and the drive mounting to the summit is in reality a well-constructed boulevard; otherwise the mountain slopes are completely overgrown by virgin forest, from which a red fox scampered out to take a shy look at the presidential party as it passed.

There are several golf courses in the vicinity and it is likely the president will have time for recreation during his stay here. He may also decide to take several automobile rides along the winding mountain roads. He has been extended a warm welcome by the local people and indicated that he will not break his vacation to accept any of them.

In Lancaster the president's coming occasioned quite a commotion. A large group of automobiles were parked at the entrance to the White House, and a prominent member, who had been expected to arrive, was not there. The arrival also prompted town officials and business men to deny that the visit had been or would be an excuse for profiteering, local hotel keepers assuring that reports of contemplated advances in hotel rates had been due to a misunderstanding.

ORDER SUSPENSION OF FREIGHT RATES

Montgomery, Ala., August 2.—Suspension of the freight rates published in Alabama as a result of the interstate commerce commission's decision in the famous Meridian rate case has been ordered by the federal rate-making body until November 27, according to a decision reaching Alabama public service commission Tuesday afternoon. This action, it is said, is taken following the filing of requests by all freight traffic bureaus in the state with the interstate commerce commission that the schedules involved be not made effective in Alabama until the entire matter had been given a full and complete hearing.

Announcement of the decision on the part of the interstate commerce commission means that the alleged discriminatory rates published by the Southern, Alabama Great Southern, Mobile and Ohio and the Alabama and Northern, and other lines, the terms of the Meridian decision will not become operative at this time.

The first action taken in behalf of Alabama shippers in the Meridian case was the filing of a petition by General Hartwell G. Davis application for a writ of mandamus to restrain the interstate commerce commission from enforcing the rates until a full and complete hearing had been given to the shippers. The petition was filed in the federal court in Montgomery on August 1, 1921, and was granted by the court in which the action was filed.

Following the granting of the temporary injunction, all four of the roads voluntarily modified their rates and announced that they would suspend the rates in question.

New York, August 2.—Discovery of $10,000 worth of cocaine in barrels of imported olive oil led today to arraignment before a United States commissioner of Victorio Sorrentino, charged with attempting to smuggle drugs into the country.

INFORMATION ASKED ABOUT CHAMBER PAPER

Charles E. Robertson, secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, is in receipt of a letter from the chamber of commerce at Dallas, Texas, in which information is requested relative to the organization, management and publication of the "City Builder," official organ of the Atlanta chamber. This information is sought, the letter says, with a view to using the paper in starting an organ which the Texas chamber is considering.

Mr. Robertson stated that he recognized high standing throughout the country which the local magazine enjoys. He said that there are only five cities in the country with a population as large or greater than that of Atlanta, whose chambers of commerce maintain an official organ upon the scope of the local publication. These are St. Louis, Indianapolis, Chicago, Boston and Denver.

NEW PAPAL NUNCIO ARRIVES IN PARIS

Stock Exchange Session Short, With Shares Firm

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, August 2.—Shortly before 10 o'clock this morning a fire was discovered in the stock exchange, which by the time it had spread to the side walls. These boards flash the numbers of different floor members, letting them know that they are wanted on the telephone to receive buying or selling orders from their own offices. With the machinery of the exchange thus crippled, with the big room filled with smoke and the floor ankle deep with water, the opening was first postponed to 11 o'clock, then to 12, and finally the opening was delayed under the leadership of rails, Wall street heard again today that foreign as well as home investors were buying seasoned dividend-paying rails, especially New York Central, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific.

The last time that regular business on the stock exchange was interrupted was at noon on September 12, 1918, when a fire was thrown on Wall street, killing a number of people, injuring many more and badly damaging the assay office and the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. On December 29, 1919, a heavy snowstorm delayed the opening until 10:30; then for two months following the outbreak of the European war the exchange was closed, but for the first time since May of 1901, when the Northern Pacific panic made it necessary to close one day, giving everybody a chance to catch up with their office work. During the great blizzard of March 12, 1882, the exchange was closed for a day and a half for the first time since the great panic of 1873, when many failures occurred and trading was suspended for ten days.

Steel Company Cuts Wages.
Cambria Steel announced today that wages of common labor had been cut to 25 cents an hour, effective August 15. The company, with 45 cents, the highest before the cutting began. Cambria has made three wage cuts.

It was learned today that the steel corporation, without making any announcements, is cutting prices from $7 to $10 a ton under the prices named when the last cut was made.

One of the Wall street news agencies printed the following on its tickers, which are in all of the banks and brokers' offices: "No further doubt can be expressed over the statements made here from time to time that competition in the steel trade is becoming serious, and might get worse. It is realized that continued price cutting can only mean materially reduced earnings for all the companies in the industry. But, apparently, the price war has only started, and unless there is a sudden resumption of buying in the near future prices are likely to go much lower."

Hide and Leather Earnings.
American Hide and Leather reported net earnings for the June quarter totaling $329,000, against an operating deficit for the same quarter of last year of $730,000, and net for the same quarter of 1919 of $1,259,000. For the six months there was a deficit after depreciation of $938,000, against a deficit for the same period of last year of $752,000, and a surplus for the first half of 1919 of $1,708,000. Montgomery Ward reported net earnings for the June quarter of $324,000, for the same month last year. For the first seven months earnings were $414,999, down $25,142,000.

Atchafalca reported $18,025,000 gross today for June, against $18,761,000 for June of 1920, and net operating income of $6,380,000, against $1,615,000 a year ago. For the six months gross was $107,344,000, against $115,565,000, and net operating income $17,018,000, against $18,235,000.

Brokers' loans here in Wall street are now down to $500,000,000—a decrease of $1,250,000,000 since the peak was hit in July of 1919. The daily turnover of call money is now between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000, compared with $45,000,000, the average in a busy market.

Corporation financing during July amounted to $128,000,000, against $124,000,000 for June and $215,000,000 for July of last year. The amount of the new money cost 7 1/8 per cent, but there was more obtained at 6 per cent than in a long day.
